MARBLE AS "GOBBLE"

HOW MANTON MARBLE FIGURED IN CRONIN'S CROWNING ACT—SPECIMEN CIPHERS FROM THE GREAT MANIPULATOR TO OREGON FRIENDS

[New York Special Aug 17]

The Tribune created a political sensation this morning by publishing certain telegrams sent by Manton Marble in November and December, 1876 These dispatches, partly in cipher have been laid before the Potter committee In the Tribune's opinion they lead to the conclusion that though Marble was in Florida he took an active interest in the formation of the Cronin electoral college, and was in frequent communication on the subject with Gramercy Park The article puts Marble forth as the famous "Gobble" The first is to Col Pelton and shows that Marble preferred to be left alone in the management of Florida affairs It told Pelton to try and have certain documents which the Associated Press would receive sent over the country by the Western New England and other agents The second one says to Pelton Please yourself about the economies suggested Coyle exceedingly useful hitherto Mention names of Florida friends when you wish to learn how much weight their several requests deserve.

It is asked what were the economies and in what was Coyle useful? Then follow the dispatches respecting the Oregon business with some of the Tribune's comments

The Hon Lafayette F Grover Portland Or It is respectfully suggested that you refrain from the issue of any certificate in favor of an elector alleged to have been chosen Nov 7 who on that day was ineligible to that office and until you shall have been advised thereon Reply at my expense if you are unable to do this
MANTON MARBLE

The reason for thinking this an early suggestion is found in the following cipher dispatch in which Marble seems to have communicated the idea to Gramercy Park as a new one

Gov W Smith 15 Gramercy Park New York The governor suggested it to from has here to issuing of been certificate refrain Oregon Telegraph Warsaw of Elector ineligible in Spain See favor to him not until advised O Conors My obtain opinion why whereon, M

It does not require a great deal of ingenuity to put this telegram in the following shape

It has been suggested to the governor of Oregon from here to refrain from issuing certificate of ineligible elector until advised thereon Why not obtain O Conor's opinion Warsaw, telegraph him See my favor to Spain

Spain seems to have been a person of importance as he was in cipher correspondence with Marble from Gramercy Park Witness this dispatch

Col Pelton Gramercy Park New York Tell Spain to repeat his message in my cipher It is unintelligible MANTON MARBLE

Then Marble disappears into lower depths than the Gobble cipher Here for instance is a dispatch sent to Col Pelton apparently two days before the 'incremable' dispatch was forwarded to Oregon (probably Nov 27)

Col Pelton Gramercy Park New York Must Paris for Edinburg Copenhagen Lima Chicago Please answer immediately MANTON MARBLE

What are we to suppose is meant by this dispatch for example in which the mysterious Warsaw appears?

New York 3d December—Manton Marble Tallahassee Fla Warsaw here Bolivia Brazil (No signature)

What causes suddenly impelled Col Pelton and Mr Marble to begin to exchange geographical information at this reckless rate on Dec 6th? The bargain with Oregon was closed so far as this end of the line was concerned Patrick's demand for a certain sum instead of a contingency was acceded to Eight thousand dollars was deposited in this city to be transferred by telegraph and the deposit was announced by Senator Kelly in the following dispatch

ASSESSMENT AND TAXATION

[illegible] Grove Aug [illegible] 1878

To the Editor of the Oregonian

I have read with a good deal of interest all the articles that have appeared in your paper and in the [illegible] paper of the state so far as I have been able to obtain them [illegible] subject of a change in our tax laws While there [illegible] I will call attention to one statement and [illegible] will not [illegible] the [illegible]

It is not contended that we adopt the law and practice of Massachusetts [illegible] debts [illegible] offset debts due or to [illegible] this law has the sanction of age it seems a bare statement of its provisions [illegible] to condemn it The fundamental principle upon which our tax laws is based is that all property within the jurisdiction and enjoying the protection of the state should contribute equally or proportionately to the support of the state and that all property should be taxed once and only once each year at a fair and just valuation

By the Massachusetts law if A is indebted to B say $10 000 and is the owner of a farm worth $20 000 he still pays tax on the whole $20 000 and B pays tax or is supposed to pay as the law requires it—a tax on the $10 000 due from A A may have bought this very farm from B paying him $10 000 in hand and giving a mortgage for the remaining $10 000 There is thus $30 000 of taxable property where there was but $20 000 before The state has made $10 000 taxable property by this transaction of A and B If, again, A should sell the same property to C for $20 000 $5 000 in hand and $15 000 on mortgage C would be taxed for the full value of the farm $20 000 and A would be taxed for the $5 000 difference between his mortgage against C and the mortgage held by B and B would be taxed with the $10 000 due from A We now have $[illegible] 000 taxable property where but $20 000 really exists Our courts as the courts of California have already done would certainly pronounce such a law unconstitutional on account of this double taxation Again D a trader holds the obligation of E for $10 000 On this amount this paper evidence that E has D's property E and D are both taxed that is E is taxed for the property and D for the value of it unless D can show that he is indebted to F, G or H in a similar amount If he does they are in turn taxed and credited with what they owe until the assessor in his chase finds some one so honest or ignorant as to have no indebtedness with which to cover his notes or mortgages

The Massachusetts law is characterized by some of her best citizens as in the highest degree arbitrary unequal unjust and in respect to personal property notoriously ineffective

The Massachusetts law so far as relates to paper evidences of debt as property and as proper subjects of taxation does not differ in any essential from our present law, and practically it is as inefficient Taxing evidences of debt and also taxing the property without exemption that give them any value is clearly double taxation The supreme court of California in the celebrated Hibernian Savings Bank case decided under a constitution similar to our own that this was double taxation and therefore unconstitutional The courts of that state have since carried to its logical and legitimate conclusion the principle there enunciated in regard to debts secured by mortgage and have declared that taxing any evidence of indebtedness and taxing the property without exemption that made those evidences of debt of any value was double taxation therefore void and unconstitutional Thus California has ceased to assess evidences of indebtedness of any kind whatever Her taxes are laid on the real visible tangible property of the state Indeed some of the courts in rendering these decisions go so far as to assert that that is all the property there really is within the state and give this clear and forcible illustration to enforce the assertion Suppose all the tangible property of the state were to change hands among her citizens at its full cash value and all payment deferred on mortgage and note

On the theory that notes and mortgages are property for the purposes of taxation we would have double the amount of property we had before now suppose the state in the exercise of sovereignty should levy a tax equal to the whole amount of property as thus increased Where would be the property out of which to make the tax? A farm is assessed to A and the value of that farm in the form of a note is assessed to B There is only the farm no more no less

Is there not a misapprehension in calling "notes and accounts"—evidences of indebtedness—property in the sense in which we use that term as a basis of taxation? These are mere evidence that the owner of this paper is entitled to recover a certain valuation from some one else who is the owner and possessor of a tangible property A borrows from B $1 000 for which he gives his note A is then the possessor and owner of those $1 000 He can use and invest that money as he sees fit and in whatever shape he may invest it it is subject to the debt held by B and equally so to any and all debts that A may owe The money property has passed out of the control of B Now unless a property was created by this transaction this note is not property—it is only a paper evidence that he is entitled to demand from A, at a future time named $1 000 If A responds B gets his money and the paper not only has no value but then becomes useless a mere scrap of waste paper Whether it is money land or other property that A borrows from B the principle is the same

There is a distinction between assessment and taxation that it would be well to remember Persons are assessed—property is taxed In the case of movable property it is necessary to designate the owner or possessor—hence he is assessed In immovable property it is convenient to give the name of the owner or possessor but not necessary the property may be and often is taxed without being assessed to any one When all the visible tangible property of the state is reached and taxed nothing more remains But our laws undertake to catch the shadow rather than the substance—to tax the person rather than the property—and in doing so make a most miserable failure as might readily have been predicted We have but repeated the failures of other states This effort to tax persons for holding this kind of so called property results in punishing a man for being honest or ignorant by making him pay not only his legitimate proportion of taxes but also an additional amount to make up for a deficiency occasioned by those who by reason of cunning and dishonesty do not pay

The state gives protection to the property within her jurisdiction [illegible] therefore tax that property and let rival owners or joint owners settle among themselves who shall pay the tax The state [illegible] the property and where known assess it to [illegible] owner with or without incumbrance [illegible] all property can be [illegible] taxation W

Major Throckmorton's command also Major Mizner's were present and ready for any emergency

Father Conradey opened the council with prayer

Gen Howard stated the purpose of the council which was to consider the situation of affairs and to see if some means could not be devised to preserve peace until congress was in session

All the chiefs were then called on to speak and all but Stock stated that they were friendly and wanted peace

Gov Chadwick was called on and on behalf of citizens here and throughout the state presented their demands and stated that General Howard's course would be sanctioned all over the state

Gen Howard then in a firm but pleasant manner demanded of these chiefs all Indians who had been engaged in murders and depredations and when the chiefs understood his request he said he would hold them or some Indians to be produced by them as hostages until their efforts were exhausted in ferreting out the guilty When found the accused were to be turned over to the proper authorities for trial The order of Gen Howard was obeyed at once by the reservation chiefs and all others There is no doubt now of getting at the murderers Gen Howard by his remarks and actions in this council, has endeared himself to the people here Great rejoicing and enthusiasm prevails throughout the country

Gov Chadwick was serenaded on his arrival at Pendleton and in alluding to the day's work as the great step taken towards a permanent peace with the Indians he complimented Gen Howard at the mention of whose name the citizens gave cheer after cheer to the general The governor thanked them in behalf of the general who was absent The governor closed his remarks amid cheers and rejoicing

Gen Gates followed the governor in a grand review and approval of the day's work

Gen Howard left the council grounds for Walla Walla from thence he will go to see Moses and settle the difficulties in Washington

All the speeches are forwarded to you The best of order was maintained during the long but interesting proceedings The interest was universal and the result has sent a feeling of satisfaction over the community that has not been felt for a long time The Indians feel this thing as well as the whites and there is no end of praise of those who have brought this about

New System of Wagon Brakes.
TRULLINGER PATENT BRAKE.
NO SHOES TO WEAR OUT TIRES!
No Brake Bar used. Will hold a Wagon anywhere from Backing or going Forward.
THIS NEW BRAKE NOW BEING INTRODUCED by the inventor J C Trullinger is a combination of friction gear applied to the hub of a wagon. It is simple and light yet has more strength and durability than any other wagon brake now in the use. It is so attached to the wagon that it is out of the way of the gearing yet always reliable and at hand when required. Any teamster or mechanic can see at once its utility and effective force to hold a load on a down grade or to prevent horse backing when required. The Brake is made entirely of iron no wooden part being necessary, as no brake bar is used hence it does not carry mud and is not affected by wet and muddy or icy roads
We invite critical examination as we believe its merits can be demonstrated to any party who uses or understands a wagon brake

FARMS AND MACHINERY

While it is true that the classes of our urban and village population who live by wages have been having an exceptionally hard time during three years past it is also true that the agricultural classes who constitute much the larger part of the working people of the United States have been as a whole more than usually prosperous Improved methods of farming and cheaper transportation are giving them advantages until recently unknown Their products no longer perish on the ground from which they are brought forth Good prices and a sure market have been the result of the growth of our great railway system General use of machinery makes the farmer almost independent of the "hired help" which once consumed so large a portion of his profits The farmer and his sons now do the work of the farm, and all their products are taken at good prices at the nearest railway station The consequence is that throughout the United States fewer farmers are in debt than at any former period of our history And in farmers' homes comforts and luxuries which twenty years ago were the exception, are now the rule

The land is not yet all occupied. There is still a great abundance of the most excellent land to be had by those who are willing to take it and till it. Any man who possesses industry and energy may within a few years enroll himself in the great and prosperous agricultural class. The world needs and will ever need all the surplus food we can produce and whoever desires may join at once the most ancient and independent order of farmers and in a short time place himself beyond the reach of panics, industrial crises, reduction of wages and failure of employment. Here is the best workingmen's organization one can possibly join. But it means real labor If a man wants to purchase prosperity and independence he must pay the price for it. He must work as others have done who have so established themselves

If there were no land to be had these might well be called useless suggestions. But there is great abundance of the most excellent land to be had upon the same terms upon which our now prosperous agriculturists obtained their farms And it may be said with greatest positiveness that the opportunities for "making a start" in this direction are far better and more favorable now than they were in former years. But we have fallen into a fashion of considering as severe and almost intolerable a mode of life which was accepted without a murmur by men and women of the last generation. Rather than accept it many will lounge around the whisky shops, live as they can catch it, curse the government, the Chinese and labor saving machinery, and feel instinctively that every man who has reached a better condition, through his own energy or that of his ancestors, is their natural enemy. A man once went to Horace Greeley and complained that he couldn't find work. With more force and truth than amiability the philosopher replied, "You lie! The world's full of it!" Answers like this, though wanting in suavity, are much more to the purpose than the long-drawn treacle of sentimentalism which professes compassion for a man because he has to work, or the demagogue's appeal to government for help through legislation.

No one who has noticed the speeches of the "reformers," their writings, platforms and testimony before the congressional committee, has failed to observe that all of them are specially at war with machinery on the ground that it takes the place of hand labor, throwing the latter out of employment, limiting its field, and making employers more and more independent of strikes It need not be questioned that machinery is working a revolution in the labor market. In no department is this more manifest than in agriculture. Nor is it to be doubted that it may be a partial though temporary disadvantage to certain classes of working people, At the same time one of the clearest of all facts is that the great increase of general wealth, comfort and happiness, and the rapid extension of civilization in these times, are owing more to the multiplication of labor saving machinery than to all other causes combined And machinery has conferred its greatest benefactions upon the poor. It has lifted the world, with all classes and conditions, into another sphere. Two eminent literary men were conversing one day, when the former spoke of the necessaries of life in distinction from its luxuries. The latter replied, "The luxuries of life are its necessaries," and this truth is established by the fact that chiefly through the use of machinery the luxuries of each former generation become the common comforts of the succeeding one. Read any good description of the state of England say in the sixteenth century, and you will find that in many respects the paupers in our alms houses are now kept better than nobles lived then. There is no man who has not intelligence enough to be a master of machinery and make it serve him, and thus he may escape competition with it But in any event even the poorest man cannot afford to dispense with it, and indirectly it will help him, whether he is willing or not.

THURMAN'S TUMBLE

As proof of the agility of Mr Thurman as a political acrobat and an indication of the completeness of his recent sommersault it is only necessary to note that in 1874 he voted for and advocated from first to last a bill introduced by his colleague Sherman chairman of the senate committee on finance, fixing the minimum limit of greenback notes at $382,000,000, and providing that on the 1st of January, 1876, the treasury should redeem them in gold or exchange them for ten year bonds bearing gold interest Examination of the same bill shows that it provided that national banking should be free, and that seventy per cent of the greenbacks should be called in and retired for national bank notes to be issued The record shows that the bill was debated for months and that Thurman's vote was recorded again and again in its favor It was finally defeated and a substitute suggested by Senator M[illegible] was adopted, which provided for more greenbacks. Thurman voted against it. This bill finally passed but was vetoed by President Grant The history of the matter is revived for the purpose of showing how complete has been Thurman's renouncement of the sound principles which long gave him an enviable reputation This is what an insane and overmastering desire for the presidency will do for a man The Thurman who is now stultifying himself and making concessions to the ignorance, turbulence and discontent of the country in order to win the prize he has set before him is no more the Thurman of former times than the [illegible] mace of [illegible] skin contained the heart and courage of the stout old captain of famous story

A correspondent at Honolulu notes that Mr Spreckles a rich sugar refiner of San Francisco, who bought twenty thousand acres of hitherto barren land in the Hawaiian Islands some time ago is about to get it into a great sugar plantation He is the same man who when the reciprocity treaty making island sugar free of duty in the United States appeared safe of confirmation slipped over and [illegible] the whole business He is coining money, of course It is just the same as if the United States were paying him and the islanders who reap the profits these enormous sums directly out of the national treasury This blundering treaty ought never to have been ratified There was a great job in it

Major R P Eaton of Maine superintendent of the railway mail service of the United States, arrived here yesterday He is on official business It is his desire to obtain all possible information as to the wants of the country in regard to the mails and to adjust as far as possible everything that is out of joint All persons who have anything to suggest regarding desired adjustments may do a service by communicating with Major Eaton. He may be addressed at Portland for some days

Beecher's lectures in San Francisco are a great attraction He gets $10 000 gold for ten lectures, and $1,000 for expenses. A critic says "Beecher always delights his immense audiences with his matchless word paintings and common sense teachings. The changes in his voice in pitch, quality and inflection are unforced and natural and even in its most rapid transitions show forth the meaning of his thoughts with entire clearness and precision of detail"

The amount of standard silver dollars coined up to the 10th of August is 11,472,500 and the amount on hand is 10 079 487 It thus appears that 1 393,013 have been placed in the channels of circulation and they no doubt are mostly in the hands of brokers, having been gathered up for sale to importers

Young Bennett of the Herald.

[From the Philadelphia Times]

The lately arrived autocrat of the Herald office lingered in the editorial rooms very late one night and all the fellows supposed that he wouldn't turn up again until next day at dusk, anyhow But Bennett was nosing and slashing around at six in the morning and kept it up until noon The fellows were late, of course The only responsible man who appeared on time was city editor Meighan "Meighan," said the young man "consider your salary doubled draw it four weeks in advance and take a month's vacation So Meighan and his family are now inhaling the White Mountain air

The Great American Junketer

[From the S F Chronicle]

As a swinger around the circle Hayes is a success. He has accomplished more in the junketing line since his inauguration than all of his predecessors. Had he any earnest friends, they would probably claim that his frequent picnics are in the interest of civil service reform, but his unfortunate policy appears to have left him without a single defender

R WHITZIE

WHERE THERE IS SO MUCH SMOKE

THERE MUST BE

SOME CIGARS!

A Short Card with a Long Introduction!

I HAVE FOR A LONG TIME CONTEMPLATED a change in the style of my business establishing in part not only the 10 cent and 15 cent system which is simply a just one to seller and buyer but also introducing a costlier (to me) and better class of goods I cannot do this however without a fixed determination on my part to sell for cash only It is a rule which I must carry out in order to give my patrons the benefit resulting from such a course. Every business man will understand this and if not upheld in it it will become necessary for me to re establish the old and very unsatisfactory mode and sell a quality of goods which while superior to that generally sold will leave me a percentage to cover losses and delays inevitably resulting from a credit system

Intending to carry out the most approved principles and anticipating, as is necessary in dealing out high cost goods a greatly increased patronage I have laid in a supply of cigars of all grades and especially Imported Havanas sufficiently large to meet the change

To bring to this market a big assortment of Imported Cigars the genuineness of which I am ready to guarantee involves considerable risk and outlay of money Goods of this class in consequence of their sensibility to atmospheric changes must be sold rapidly in order that invoices may be often renewed and the stock on hand be always fresh My facilities for supplying this market are most perfect and I need but to be seconded in my efforts by a public to whose liberality and long continued patronage I am indebted for my success in business In the future I hope to keep my faith with them as I am confident I have in the past Though my purchases extend to several importing houses I am the authorized agent of whose reputation as dispensers of imported Cigars extends over this entire coast.

MICHALITSCHKE BROTHERS

AND

As I propose to imitate no man but be always a leader I shall in spite of extremely small profits make a specialty of Imported cigars selling them at 15 cents apiece and upwards

I shall continually increase the assortment deal them out of the original packages and treat all patrons alike caring only to know that for every cigar that leaves the store I have received the coin I hope my friends and patrons will not ask me to violate a rule in which all things considered, the odds are so much in their favor To the trade and box customers rates will be made in accordance with amount purchased and terms agreed upon My 10 cent cigars will also be of improved quality New York cigars—Kerbs & Spies Lichtensteins and Geo P Lies' manufactures will be sold 3 to 7 for 25 cents and Seed cigars still cheaper

All the latest styles of Cigarettes cigarette and plug tobaccos now in stock ISAAC BLUM

ARM AMPUTATED —Some time ago Mr Ed Cartwright had a large and malignant tumor removed from one of his arms While stopping at the [illegible] hotel in Salem last week he came near bleeding to death by the rupture of a small artery A few days ago Mr Cartwright was brought to this city and taken to St Vincent's hospital his condition not improving Tuesday Dr Jones assisted by Drs Watkins and Rex amputated the limb at the hospital The arm was taken off at the shoulder The operation was a difficult one but was performed in a very skillful manner Mr Cartwright is lying at the hospital in a critical condition

A SERIOUS MISHAP —Mr Jacob Anderson, while engaged in cleaning a well yesterday in East Portland had the misfortune to meet with a painful accident Mr Anderson was engaged at the bottom of the well, and the workmen above were lowering a bucket of bricks when the rope broke and the bucket with its contents, fell to the bottom striking Mr Anderson upon the head and inflicting a painful wound He was taken out in an insensible condition conveyed to a house and medical aid summoned for his treatment At present he lies in a critical condition

EXCAVATION TO COMMENCE —The work of rock excavation from the Snake river will be commenced next week During the present season operations will be carried on at Five Mile rapid Pine Tree rapid and Monumental rocks, 1 800 cubic yards in all will be removed The work of excavating rock from the channel in the Willamette river, near Rock island will be commenced to day The channel near Dove's rock will be straightened, and a portion of the ledge known as Bissell's rock will be removed

RETURNS THANKS —Rev J H Allyn would take this method of returning his sincere thanks for the favors shown him by various persons in regard to the death and burial of his son and especially to the O S N Co and Hon J W Brazee, their agent, and to Mr McCartney superintendent of the Oregon railroad for their efforts put forth for the recovery of the body and for assistance in removing the same to Marshfield, and for the pains taken to find out and inform him of the sad occurrence.

DOG THIEF —For some days past a dog has been in the habit of stealing behind the counter of Manciet & Co's restaurant and appropriating a loaf of bread. This happened when those connected with the house had congregated in the rear of the room, as is the custom One of the boys dropped on the thief and sent him adrift in a hurry It is highly probable he will not venture into Manciet's again on a similar mission.

NIPPED —Says the Telegram: "A party well known in this city was arrested in Astoria last night on complaint of a leading business man in Portland. The reason for his arrest is the alleged crime of obtaining money under false pretenses The man had taken passage on the Great Republic with the intention of "skinning out, but the eyes of the law were too sharp for him."

BUILDINGS —The superintendent of streets tells us that the number of buildings erected in Portland since the 1st of January last, including those begun and yet unfinished, exceeds six hundred This exceeds by far the building record of any former year in this city. It indicates an increase of our city's population during 1878 by fully three thousand.

RETURNED —Dr Manasse, the well known skillful optician, has just returned from a professional visit to Salem and Albany He was very successful, and returns to the city much improved in health Dr. Manasse can be found at room No 106, St. Charles Hotel.

SURVEY PROGRESSING.—The survey at the mouth of the Columbia is progressing well, although more or less delay is occurring on account of the hazy and smoky atmosphere, which prevents the shore signals from being seen by the observers on the boats

THE DREDGE —The U S dredge completed the first cut through St Helens bar yesterday, getting a depth of 19 feet at low water. The channel will be widened to 100 feet and completed about September 20th, if nothing unforeseen

Good Work —A letter received from Dilley's station under date of Aug [illegible]th says "I threshed yesterday on the farm of A Z Smith, rented by Shipley 1712 bushels of wheat, moved and set twice in the forenoon and threshed 600 bushels commenced at 1 30 o clock in the afternoon and quit at 6 0 and threshed 1 112 bushels that is over 20 bushels per hour Let some of the 36 inch machines put this in their pipes and smoke it The machine I used was a 28 inch Canton Pitt thresher with a 10 horse gear Scott engine Shipley says it is as good a job as he ever had done. The grain was cleaned and nice for market I threshed for him 115 acres"

Arm Amputated —Some time ago Mr Ed Cartwright had a large and malignant tumor removed from one of his arms While stopping at the Chemeketa hotel in Salem last week he came near bleeding to death by the rupture of a small artery A few days ago Mr Cartwright was brought to this city and taken to St Vincent's hospital his condition not improving Tuesday Dr Jones assisted by Drs. Watkins and Rex amputated the limb at the hospital The arm was taken off at the shoulder The operation was a difficult one, but was performed in a very skillful manner. Mr Cartwright is lying at the hospital in a critical condition

A Serious Mishap —Mr Jacob Anderson while engaged in cleaning a well yesterday in East Portland had the misfortune to meet with a painful accident. Mr. Anderson was engaged at the bottom of the well, and the workmen above were lowering a bucket of bricks when the rope broke and the bucket with its contents, fell to the bottom striking Mr Anderson upon the head and inflicting a painful wound He was taken out in an insensible condition, conveyed to a house and medical aid summoned for his treatment At present he lies in a critical condition

Excavation to Commence —The work of rock excavation from the Snake river will be commenced next week. During the present season operations will be carried on at Five Mile rapid, Pine Tree rapid and Monumental rocks, 1,300 cubic yards in all will be removed. The work of excavating rock from the channel in the Willamette river, near Rock island will be commenced to day The channel near Dove's rock will be straightened and a portion of the ledge known as Bissell's rock will be removed.

Returns Thanks —Rev. J H. Allyn would take this method of returning his sincere thanks for the favors shown him by various persons in regard to the death and burial of his son, and especially to the O S. N Co and Hon. J W. Brazee, their agent, and to Mr McCartney, superintendent of the Oregon railroad, for their efforts put forth for the recovery of the body, and for assistance in removing the same to Marshfield, and for the pains taken to find out and inform him of the sad occurrence.

Dog Thief.—For some days past a dog has been in the habit of stealing behind the counter of Manciet & Co.'s restaurant and appropriating a loaf of bread This happened when those connected with the house had congregated in the rear of the room, as was the custom. One of the boys dropped on the thief and sent him adrift in a hurry It is highly probable he will not venture into Manciet's again on a similar mission

Nipped.—Says the Telegram · "A party well known in this city was arrested in Astoria last night on complaint of a leading business man in Portland. The reason for his arrest [illegible] alleged crime of obtaining money under false pretenses. The man had taken passage on the Great Republic with the intention of 'skipping out,' but the eyes of the law were [illegible] him"

Buildings.—The superintendent of streets tells us that the number of buildings erected in Portland since the 1st of January last, including those begun and yet unfinished exceeds six hundred. This exceeds by far the building record of any former year in this city It indicates an increase of our city's population during 1878 by fully three thousand.

Returned.—Dr Manasse, the well known skillfull optician, has just returned from a professional visit to Salem and Albany He was very successful, and returns to the city much improved in health. Dr. Manasse can be found at room No. 106, St Charles Hotel.

Survey Progressing.—The survey at the mouth of the Columbia is progressing well, although more or less delay is occurring on account of the hazy and smoky atmosphere, which prevents the shore signals from being seen by the observers on the boats

REPORTED ARREST OF ARCHIE BROWN

A correspondent writing to the Salem Statesman from Sheridan, Yamhill county says that a suspicious looking individual came into town upon horseback and from his actions and general appearance and answering in a semi sort of way the description published by Chief Besser of Portland of the murderer Archie Brown, he was taken into custody by Ed Money, the postmaster and Bill Lemmons Shortly after his arrival a farmer from near McMinnville came into town and claimed the horse the "tramp" had in his possession when he came there

The farmer stated that he had left home about 10 o clock on horseback with another horse that he was leading Some four miles beyond Bellevue he overtook the 'hombre' now in custody who was footing it along the highway and finding that he was going to Sheridan, gave the man the extra horse to ride Upon arriving at Bellevue the farmer dismounted and went into the store to make some inquiries and while transacting his business the tramp put the lash to the animal that he bestrode and came on to this place, where he was arrested as above stated

The correspondent states that Money and Lemmons had started with their prisoner for St Joe on the way to this city Up to a late hour last night neither Money, nor Lemmons nor the prisoner had put in an appearance at police headquarters If these parties do not arrive here by train this morning it is safe to say that the whole affair is a hoax It does appear a little strange that the police authorities here have not heard a word concerning the alleged arrest of Brown We give the above account just for what it may be worth

A LETTER FROM [illegible] THE FATAL SHOOTING AFFAIR ON THE STEAMER S[illegible]

The following letter will [illegible] explanation The letter was written to a lady in this city

Celilo Aug 27 1878

Mrs Baughman wishes me to write to you and explain all the circumstances of the distressingly unfortunate accident that occurred on the steamer Spokane last Saturday Aug [illegible]th As near as I can learn from all sources the facts are these

While coming down over Umatilla rapids one of the deck hands had an altercation with a Chinese cook and beat him very badly The fact was reported to Capt Baughman who ordered the man put ashore and landed the steamer for that purpose The man refused to go ashore and Capt Baughman went down to put him off They grappled and the man being very powerful and crazy with passion he handled the captain as if he had been an infant forcing him against a pile of wood and tearing his shirt off by the collar in trying to grab him by the throat and choke him The mate and I [illegible] caught the man and held him and the captain pulled away from him and went up stairs and got his rifle Mr Kinnersly remarked "There is no bullet in your gun" The captain said "I know it I don't want any" and went into the next room and got five or six small shot tore a rag off his shirt sleeve, wrapped the shot in it and put them in the gun and started down stairs on the side of the boat away from the shore The man after being taken away from the captain went across the boat took a capstan bar from the rack and went aft The pilot (Al Pinkston) went to him and said "Don't be foolish man you had better go ashore" The man raised the bar as if to strike but said nothing The engineer (Dave Pardun) then spoke to him The man raised the bar as if to strike him and said, 'ha ha the captain will put me ashore will he?'

Two or three of the deck hands and the mate then talked to him and persuaded him to go ashore He then went forward with the mate As they got to the forward starboard gangway the captain came down the starboard stairway and said, 'Where is the man that won't go ashore?' The mate said 'it is all right captain the man is going ashore' The captain took two or three steps forward turned partially around on the edge of the boat and said "it's all right let him go" and lowered the butt of the gun as if to set it down The man raised his hands as if to push made a step towards the captain instead of from him towards the shore Just then the gun went off and the man fell dead The charge entered between the eyebrows and came out below the hair on his forehead showing that the gun must have been almost perpendicular The powder burnt the man's face he was so close to the gun

These are the facts Here are a great many comments and the Irishmen are very much excited and prejudiced against the captain but I think the feeling will subside in a few days In haste your friend

W P GRAY

THE DALLES Aug 27 5 P M

I have just seen the captain He is feeling well and is in good spirits He will have an examination before Judge McArthur He is in The Dalles jail for protection against the mob but not under arrest No one who has heard the evidence given before the coroner's jury but expresses the opinion that he will be cleared

TO THE PUBLIC.

It unwillingly becomes my duty to inform the public that a certain would be high toned competing firm are now through jealousy resorting to falsehood and vilification in order to gain patronage etc My reputation for fair dealing with customers has never yet been questioned by my patrons and it has remained for those vilifiers to attempt by misrepresentation to injure a legitimate and honorably conducted business I have always sold goods cheaper than they could be purchased elsewhere and I am now determined to make further reductions The people can as heretofore find at my establishment a full line of first class goods at moderate prices Call and see and be convinced

BEAUTY: OR, THE
Secret of a Fair Face.
An Item of Interest to Every Lady who Desires to be More Beautiful than she now is.
Unfortunately not one woman in a hundred, subjected to the whims of an American climate, possesses that basis and starting point of real beauty —a pure and clear complexion. What nature has thus denied, art must be called upon to furnish. It can be done; it is done daily. Prof. W. E. Hagan placed beauty within the reach of every unblessed daughter of Eve when he discovered that surprising article known in fashionable circles as the true secret of beauty, and called
MAGNOLIA
BALM
The MAGNOLIA BALM is a sure device for creating a pure and blooming complexion. It conceals all natural blemishes in the most surprising and effective manner It removes all roughness, eruptions, redness, blotches, freckles, and tan with magical power It drives away all evidence of fatigue and excitement. It makes the plainest face beautiful. It gives the complexion a dazzling purity and makes the neck, face, and arms appear graceful, rotund and plump. It makes a matron of 30 or 40 look not more than 20 years old, and changes the rustic maiden into a cultivated city belle.
The Magnolia Balm removes all blemishes and conceals every drawback to beauty, and, while it is as harmless as water, it is so life-like in its effects that the closest observer cannot detect its use. Ladies who want to make themselves attractive can make an absolute certainty of it by using HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM and we know of no other way It is the cheapest preparation in the world all things considered, and may be had at any drug store.

THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 29 1878

HE SCOOLMASTER'S DAUGHTER

AN ORIGINAL STORY

Thirteen letters for you father and I haven't one I quite envy you exclaimed Charles Hilton as he deposited the morning mail on the Squire's desk His father smiled good humoredly and proceeded to tear open an important business letter when he caught sight of a tiny violet scented note and directed in a delicate feminine hand As the Squire had no lady correspondents he was much surprised and dropping the sheet of foolscap he held he gently cut the pink envelope and read the following

Judge Hilton—DEAR SIR I waste no time in circumlocutious preludes but proceed at once to the point Your son Charles Hilton is paying marked attention to the daughter of the village schoolmaster The entire village are talking of this strange infatuation but have doubtless refrained from mentioning it to you out of consideration of the feelings of a father but I know you would prefer to be informed of your heir's passion for this girl and so be able to prevent a mad marriage by quietly sending him out of Whiteford till he is cured

There was no signature nothing by which to trace the writer it seemed and the Squire was sorely puzzled for a moment but anger soon rose in proportion to his wonder at the letter and turning to the infatuated heir who was lounging on the sofa he requested him to advance Charlie approached his father, glancing at the knitted brows and sparkling eyes beneath them with surprise Then as if some sudden inkling of the truth had struck him he parted his lips and was about to speak when the Squire raised his hand and cried angrily 'Silence sir I perceive that you have guessed the contents of this little letter Who it is from I know not but I would richly reward them for this kind frank news, if I could find them out Read it ' and he abruptly forced the anonymous note in his son's hands Charlie glanced at the sheet then quietly replaced it on the desk.

Well is all this true inquired the incensed father

The substance is correct but the details are false The entire village is not talking of it. Perhaps a few gossips like this cowardly informer have made a mountain out of a mole-hill, but I know that the few attentions I have paid Effie have excited no comment among the respectable families that mind their own business There is no fear of a 'mad marriage,' as I had set to morrow as the day on which to inform you of my love for Effie and my wish to gain your consent to our marriage If you had sent me out of Whiteford without telling me your reasons though I had gone to Australia I should never have forgotten Effie. You wish me to become a lawyer, and though the bar is distasteful to me, I will adopt it with eagerness to secure a home for Effie "

Very well pleaded indeed but do you know that her family is far, far below ours Consider what her breeding and education must be, living alone with that old man and associating with bouncing milk maids and rough field hands,' said the squire, trying to reason with his son

I assure you that if you think that Effie is not a perfect lady you are very much mistaken Take her to London, present her to the highest class, and her manners would not discredit a duchess, rather the contrary Her family is as respectable as ours and is descended from one of the Scottish clans."

But your engagement with Miss Redfern?"

I always said I should never consent to it If you made the contract when we were children you must take the consequences Can I marry Effie?"

"With my consent, never!"

Charles bowed and withdrew Snatching his cap from the rack, he left the house and walked swiftly towards the edge of the village Knocking at a small, dingy house, he scarce waited for the door to be opened when he entered, and turning to the young girl that had admitted him he said

"Effie, my father refuses his consent I think if I could have gone to him before that sneaking letter turned him against you he would have received you with affection.

Here Charlie gave her the contents of the rosy tinted note, and begged her to become his wife, holding out to her temptations of the most alluring kind his brilliant debut at the bar, his speedy reconcilement with his father, his friends in London who would receive his wife with open arms. But she stood firm her hands folded, her thoughtful eyes fixed on the floor, seemingly not moved by his earnest words, though she was more than she would admit to herself She thought of the old squire who, once thoroughly angered was not to be placated by anything short of the obliteration of the fault and how was that possible, having once married her? She knew that a lawyer's career was a precarious one, and that fame was not to be earned in a day sometimes not in a life time and what chance would Charles have among the crowd of rich young barristers without his father's help? The friends he spoke of were as aristocratic as the squire himself, and would have nothing to do with an unknown country girl, the more if she married the son against the father's wish Then she thought of other things which she did not tell Charlie, for he would have treated them as mere visions They could not afford the expense of keeping her old father in London, and what would become him if he lost his "heart's delight,' as he called her So with a little sigh, she slowly told her lover that she could not marry him giving her reasons for this decision

Effie, do you love me? I can hardly believe it when you renounce me in this cool manner, as though it were no effort whatever, said Charles, reproachfully

' Please don't say that I know you would deny yourself of every luxury for my comfort but after a few years you would weary of me and wish yourself back in your grand old home and I in this little hut Don't think me hard it is best this way " she said wearily

You'll change your mind before night, won't you?

No. It is decided If you love me, you will not torment me so. If—if your father ever sees fit to alter his decision, I will always be ready to wed you, Charlie but you had better go and marry some great lady, like Miss Redfern "

Charlie muttered a hasty anathema at great ladies in general and Miss Redfern in particular, and taking Effie's hand, begged her to think well before she ruined his life

I cannot marry you till your father is willing to receive me. If you love me and are a true man, you will not allow this to ruin your life. Go to London become a great lawyer, and please the squire in every way possible, then if you still remember me he may be induced to relent, but if you marry me now, against his will, he will never consent to see your face again Good bye " And suddenly breaking from him, she rushed into her room, locked the door and gave herself up to a violent fit of weeping

The squire's son was unprepared for this and hearing the approaching step of Mr Ward, hastily departed, well-knowing the old man's propensity to gossip, and feeling in an ill mood to listen with the patient attention he had always paid to the discourse of his future father in law His first feelings were of anger and vexation He pettishly exclaimed that Effie could not love him as he did her or she would have married him though father mother and a [illegible] mad Then as he neared home he saw that it was a sacrifice made more for his sake than for hers and hoping to cause his father to feel a few of the pangs of remorse he gave him the substance of Effie's words This produced no visible effect at the time though it really caused the squire to think much better of the girl and he used his influence so successfully that the schoolmaster's salary was doubled

Charles went up to London studied hard passed a very creditable examination and was admitted to the bar

Squire Hilton proud and happy only wished for a brilliant match for his son and as soon as the latter's vacation came on intended to take him to Stafford Hall the residence of Miss Redfern and her guardian to which delightful retreat the father and son had a standing invitation But *l'homme propose, Dieu dis*pose saith the proverb and so it proved in this case To show how this come to pass we must return to Effie

After that first tempestuous burst of tears she scarcely allowed her thoughts to dwell on Charlie It was hard for his dear handsome face would suddenly obscure the book she was reading or shine out at her from the depths of the [illegible] but she bravely [illegible] self [illegible] at home [illegible] an event happened that [illegible] satisfaction to all parties [illegible]

Mr Ward was the possessor of a [illegible] the very first place of selling her to some farmer as [illegible] A [illegible] was found who after much [illegible] to pay her [illegible] ten pounds six shillings and two pence and [illegible] the [illegible] call at his farm for it which was some three quarters of a mile distant

[illegible] going for the school children [illegible] and he finally came home quite used up After she had been to the farm she thought it best to return by the shortest road It had a bad reputation but as the sun was low in the west and feeling [illegible] she decided to try it for once and plunged boldly into the narrow dark path that led to her home She was nearing the end of the wood and already laughed at her fears when she heard men's voices and knew by the increasing sound that they were approaching her way Stepping behind a tall bush she hid feeling secure as her dress was dark and the branches shrouded her completely Soon the men came by and Effie caught most of the following conversation

No danger you say the younger said anxiously

Pshaw you white livered cur If yer goin to carry on like this I'll drop yer We kin get along without you just as well as not replied the older villain glaring scornfully at his comrade

I didn't mean notin Bill only no one wants a bullet in em now I leave it to you do they

Bill grunted an assent and added, Don't be a fool '

In course I won't I couldn't be a fool when you've been a teachin me

Mollified by this, Bill consented to be sociable

The squire'll miss a little fortin when he gets up won't he?" and the two robbers burst into a hoarse laugh of triumph

Dashing Tim's waiting for me at Mat Jones Mind you're prompt twelve sharp and the accomplished pair separated

Effie caught her breath with fear and astonishment These men were going to steal into the squire's house and rob him of every thing they could lay their hands on The doors of Hilton Hall had no bolts and were constructed so that any skeleton key could easily open them Judge Hilton had no safe, and was accustomed to keeping a large sum of money by him, and his well known weakness for costly rings pins studs and watch chains insured the marauders of a goodly spoil Effie started up and hastily directed her steps toward the hall without a thought of revenging herself on the old man by allowing the robbers to enter in peace. She felt embarrassed at the approaching meeting but thought it her duty to warn him of the danger And a hope sprang up that perhaps his heart would be softened towards her and who knew what might come of it? So unconsciously her eye brightened and her step grew light and she rang the bell with a brisk ring that brought the footman to the door in less than five minutes, which was quite a wonder, as the domestics of Hilton Hall were accustomed to taking life easy

" May I see the squire? said Effie growing nervous under the strong glare of the servant

" Walk in and I'll see, was the answer and away he went, and returned bidding her to follow him to the office

What name?

' Effie Ward and in a pompous tone he repeated Effie Ward

The squire started violently but restraining himself, advanced and placed a chair

' May I ask the object of your visit? ' he said frigidly

Effie flushed with vexation but swallowed her pride, gave him the robbers conversation word for word He listened attentively and when she had done, grasped her hand and exclaimed

' Miss Ward you are a noble woman I hope the time will come when I can repay you for this inestimable service, meanwhile, allow me to offer you the hospitality my house affords for you're excited by this event and before she could reply he had sent for the housekeeper a buxom sprightly dame who, armed with a cup of tea took Effie to bed The squire kindly anticipating Effie's wishes told the messenger dispatched for the police to stop at Mr Ward's and inform him of the cause of his daughter's long stay which, indeed was a kind action for the old man was already deliberating whether he should go in search of her

That night, at twelve sharp six policemen stood near the principal door of the hall knowing that the robbers would enter here —as all the others had been chained and secured against any attempts that might be made to enter The thieves having tried several sides of the house with no success came up the front steps and inserting their skeleton key in the lock opened the door and entered but to their amazement were immediately confronted with a pair of cocked revolvers Turning to flee, they saw that they were surrounded, and to their terror stricken imagination the room seemed filled with the officers of justice

The next day, at court Effie fully identified the men as the same that she had heard in the wood and they were tried, convicted and sent to prison. Judge Hilton's gratitude knew no bounds, and he insisted on the Wards making their home at Hilton Hall at least for the time being Meanwhile he was planning to surprise both of his guests in the pleasantest manner possible He had found it difficult to persuade Effie to remain but under the pretext of a season of feasting and rejoicing over his deliverance, he at length caused her to relent, especially as her father manifested considerable satisfaction at the prospect of such a banquet The day after the trial, the squire absented himself on the plea of business, which said business was a conversation with Miss Redfern's guardian He requested him to dissolve the engagement which he the guardian, was secretly glad to do as a very young lord of whom it might have been appropriately sung

His lordship's forehead is far from wide
But there's plenty of room for the brains inside

Had recently sued for his ward's hand and to him a title was preferable to wealth culture or beauty besides Miss Redfern had all three and the title was all left to be desired So the squire after having sent an urgent telegram to Charles bidding him to come down to Whiteford as soon as possible returned home in a very pleasant frame of mind

The next day Charles arrived and without sending word walked up to the hall wondering what could have happened requiring his presence When he got to the gate and looked up the walk he thought himself in a dream, for on the balcony stood Effie and his father The latter was placing a rose in her sunny hair whilst the schoolmaster smoked his pipe and silently gazed in approval Effie happened to catch sight of her lover and uttering a cry of delight was about to rush down the path to meet him when she suddenly stopped and glanced shyly at his father who had not yet mentioned his son's name He avoided her eye and walked down to Charles then leading him towards the house placed Effie's hand in his and whilst his face shone with joy said

My son take her She is a noble forgiving girl, worthy of a monarch and I hope you will try and prove that you deserve her Then beckoning to the schoolmaster to follow he withdrew leaving the lovers alone

The following week a merry wedding [illegible] Mrs Hilton [illegible]

What is it [illegible] kindly

The man wiped his eyes and answered huskily Oh ma'am I'm afeared lest my old mother die If she does it'll be my fault and what will I do then bad luck to me?

How is it your fault?

He hesitated then encouraged by her gentle manner told her how he had been lured by evil companions to a gambling saloon and had there played away all his month's wages Her mother depending on him for support was without money for medicines or the doctor and grew worse every hour

[illegible]

About a year ago Miss Redfern and her uncle came here and stopped at this inn for a week I had heard that she was going to marry Mr Charles and I was bad and I—I hated you because you was so much prettier than her [illegible] I want to tell you the whole truth [illegible] she wouldn't say nothing at first but after a bit she pumped me and when she went away gave me a letter to post and told me I wouldn't say nothing about it and handed me a sovereign That piece of gold burns me yet I tried not to tell you but when you came like an angel of light and saved my poor mother I had to I'm wicked but oh I do try to be good and the girl sank exhausted on the floor

Effie's eyes flashed at Miss Redfern's meanness but remembering that such conduct was beneath contempt she raised poor weeping Mary and readily forgiving her took her from the tavern and installed her as her own maid The pink note and a letter of Miss Redfern's being compared with each other it could readily be perceived that though the former hand was slightly disguised they were both written by the same person

It is scarcely necessary to add that Mr and Mrs Hilton always plainly though politely decline the urgent invitations to Stafford Hall

Silver—English standard per ounce of [illegible] fine [illegible]

There is a very fair demand ruling at this time for monetary accommodations principally arising from the grain traffic but the call is promptly met without producing any important fluctuation in rates or causing any stringency in the financial market [illegible] remittances from the interior however are slow to show the effect of the very considerable distribution of capital that must have already resulted from sales of the wool and wheat crop The general tendency though in business matters is considered to be encouraging and the fall trade is expected to be more prosperous than the average of several years past

The weather has been such as to enable the farmers to save their grain in good condition and the quality of that reaching this market so far has as a rule been very fair and it has been no difficult matter to place it at full prices The ready sale which all leading exportable products find this season in part offsets the low figures which some of them command and gives the market great energy and life

GENERAL NEWS.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN

Cool Reception to the California Communist

WASHINGTON Aug [illegible] Kearney arrived [illegible] was courteously received [illegible] in general and a conversation Kearney will remain until Friday [illegible] will leave for other points north [illegible] He will then visit Massachusetts [illegible] up the whole state for Butler He says he will address the working men of this city to morrow evening from the capitol steps

NEW YORK Aug 29 The World's Washington special has the following account of Kearney's visit to the president After securing apartments for himself and secretary at a cheap lodging house he wended his way to the White House The president received him cordially shook hands with him and with tender solicitude inquired after his health A gentleman who was present at the interview described it as follows For once Kearney seemed to have met his equal Hayes seated him in a chair and began to talk He asked about the condition of the workingmen and before the sand lot orator had a chance to reply gave his own views on the subject The president spoke about the prostrated industries of the country and anticipated a renewal of trade and then gave the half dazed Kearney an idea of his views on the Chinese labor question At the end of ten minutes conversation, Hayes arose shook hands with Kearney and bowed him out, not giving the horny handed communist a chance to even indorse Ben Butler

Mutual Disgust.

CHICAGO Aug 29—The Journal's special from Washington says Dennis Kearney has met with a very cool reception here He was not invited or expected None of the workingmen leaders knew he was coming and all to a man disavow any responsibility for him They say that they will go to hear him speak to night simply as listeners but will not preside at his meeting or be responsible for him and that after his speech, if they shall find that Kearney entertains such sentiments as have been attributed to him, he will be formally disowned by them The point that Kearney seems most anxious to convey in his private conversation is that there has been no break with Butler Kearney has repeatedly said substantially ' There has been no break-up between me and Butler On contrary, I expect to return to Massachusetts and stump all portions of that state for Butler who is the man of all men in this country that workingmen should put at the head of affairs in this country '

NEW YORK Aug 29—A Washington dispatch says Kearney to day had an interview with Secretary Carl Schurz and McCrary and Acting Secretary of the treasury, Hawley Kearney's object in visiting them was he says, to get their views regarding laboring interests He refuses to make public what passed between himself and the officials visited by him He says however that he finds them a hard money cabinet Pointing to the new state war and navy department building he said, the men who were working on it were not gaining anything if all went to thieving contractors That the government ought to build smaller and cheaper buildings and lend money on long time to the starving people to go out west and buy small farms He said Washington had no attractions for him He did not come to look at fine buildings when he knew so many people here and all over the country were starving His speech on the capitol steps this evening would not he said be communistic they never were He believed in the ballot, but not in the commune and bullets

A Foul Mouthed Blackguard.

NEW YORK Aug 29—The Herald's Cincinnati correspondent interviewed Archbishop Purcell about Kearney's visit to the latter He said Kearney's first words to me were I'm Dennis Kearney and I heard you was going to eat me!" I looked at him a moment and replied " I don't think anybody would want to eat you much " I think him a foul mouthed blackguard and the less notice that is taken of him the better off society will be He is a fomenter of mischief and can do the cause he professes to represent no good He carried himself in a swaggering way He boasted of having made himself and seemed very proud of it He claimed to have been in command of a ship when [illegible] and all such stuff as that. [illegible] considerable about him from a [illegible] in Boston and had made [illegible] After he left here I [illegible] that friend that I had no reason [illegible] mind [illegible] been [illegible] a vile blackguard [illegible] can say [illegible] state [illegible] California [illegible] persons [illegible] truth that which [illegible] did occur between Kearney and myself has been grossly exaggerated

Rarus Races against Time

MILWAUKEE Aug 29—Rarus trotted three heats to day against time for a special purse of $1 [illegible] The track was dry and very hard and a strong northeast gale was blowing and the air [illegible] It was not expected that fast time would be made but the immense crowd in attendance was agreeably disappointed as the time made was equal to at least 2 14 under more favorable conditions of wind and weather The record of quarters show that Rarus was in fine condition The last half of the last quarter in the third heat was made in very fast time The three heats were trotted without a break The following is a summary

	¼ mile	½ mile	¾ mile	1 mile
First heat	[illegible]	1 08	1 43¾	2 18¾
Second heat	[illegible]	1 0[illegible]	1 42	2 1[illegible]
Third heat	[illegible]	1 08	1 4[illegible]	[illegible]
